

Christian M. Schmahl

Biography

Christian M. Schmahl was nominated Chief Financial Officer of Aareon AG in 2012. Before, he worked at T-Online International AG for 12 years, since 2007 as Chief Financial Officer. Prior to that, he was Senior Vice President Controlling & Planning at T-Online International AG, where he was responsible for the company's IPO and built up the FP&A department. In 1996, he co-founded SBS, a corporate finance advisory boutique, and advised telecommunications companies on Mergers & Acquisitions and corporate finance issues. He began his professional career in 1990 with KPMG.

In 2005, Christian M. Schmahl was awarded the Controlling Prize by the International Controller Association (ICV) for his innovative planning and controlling concept. In a comprehensive study conducted by Directorbank, Hanson Green and Grant Thornton, he was nominated "Outstanding CFO/Finance Director" in 2011.

Christian M. Schmahl studied at the University of Bayreuth and at Bridgewater State University (Boston), graduating with a Master's degree in Business Administration. He also completed executive education programs at Harvard Business School and the Graduate School of Business at Stanford University.

He is married and has two children.

Responsibilities within the Aareon Group:

- Corporate Finance/ Group Controlling
- Accounting & Contract Management
- Group Application